MYSTERY TO BE UNRAVELLED AT PANTAGES TODAY

There is a tiny little mystery going to be unravelled at Pantages theatre today, when the nature of the hand-line act, "Thirty Pink Toes," is revealed. The utmost secrecy has surrounded this attraction, and vaudeville fans are all keyed up with curiosity. Manager Treffry has remained dumb on the subject and there are those cruel enough to intimate that even the boss himself doesn't know whether "Thirty Pink Toes" is an aggregation of beautiful women or a troupe of performing "freaks."

The De Mibelle brothers, two comical wags, who fairly make the violin and harp speak, are on this week's bill as added attractions, and it is expected they will score their usual success in Edmonton where they always stop the show. Noodles Fagan, King of the New York newsboys, is coming back with his clever daughter Elsie and will present the 1920 edition of their impromptu comedy, "A Night on the Yukon," in a skit and act presented by the Alaska Duo. The scenery and costumes being especially worthy of mention. Jean Barrios is seen in song impressions, and Frank Stafford and company of "A Hunter's Dream."

Starting with today's matinee, the Pantages will show each week a new moving picture feature, entitled "Seeing Canada," which pictures every nook and corner of the Dominion, paying special attention to the beauty spots. The ninth episode of "The Black Secret," starring Pearl White, will also be screened, together with

FRANK STAFFORD and two of his favorite canine pets on this week's Pantages vaudeville bill.

"Topics of the Day," and "The Fox Weekly."

ALLEN—In a boat-gift in the arctic David Haine faced the building, brutal giant of a mountain. Jake came out of the scene again, they began their battle for the possession of a woman. One saw her soul, the other her body.

Pitted against the mountain of flesh and bone David's character was a man of the British blood, twice they fought it out. There was a woman, the girl of his dreams, who was warm with the love of his victory, but battered and beaten, the girl came on and on. David was not behind for victory, but for his life. He was literally fighting himself to death, like a shipwrecked man on a raft.

Like a madman, the monster, the giant kept coming on, always trying for that fatal climb. And David knew there was still one last chance—one if he had the brute force of the beast within—the so-called "home break" he had seen used before with terrific effect.

Suddenly he shot himself quite—160 pounds of bone and sinew—struck as an arrow against the brute's knee, and the girl, faint with down like a stricken deer.

Just one of the big scenes, just one of them, in "The Courage of Marge O'Doone," a vaudeville screen production of the wonderful story by James Oliver Curwood, which will be shown at the Allen theatre for four days starting today. It is a strong, wide story of the great Canadian Northwest, where men are men and women are women and heaven and danger are but a part of the daily routine.

EMPIRE—Black Talmadge's immortal hero, Huckleberry Finn, was a "regular guy." So he Lewis Carroll, the talented boy actor who plays the part of Huck in the film version of the famous novel, which is at the Empire theatre the first four days of this week. Moreover, he proved to the satisfaction of every boy in the city an excellent comedian.

One of the newcomers in that city equipped a swimming hole especially for boys, and every day it is crowded with a splashing, shouting mob of youngsters. Young Argent, by reason of the fact that he plays "Huckleberry Finn" in the Paramount Aircraft picture, was invited to be the guest of honor at a "Huck-Fin Day" at the "hole." Did he accept? You bet.

He spent over two hours with the boys, taught them how to swim in the water, did a few dives that went a lot better than any that they had tried, and gave them some inside stories about picture production. To top it off, he arranged some races and gave prizes to the winners.

Lewis, freckle-faced and red-headed, is every inch a "boy's boy," and it's little wonder that he has been naturally a big success as Huck Finn.

MONARCH—"Ghosts of Yesterday," adapted from "Two Women" by Robert Hichon, and featuring Norma Talmadge, one of Edmonton's favorite movie stars, will be the feature attraction at the Monarch theatre today, Thursday and Wednesday. It depicts the change of heart of a fast-living cabaret singer through the influence of true love which comes to her as she poses for the completion of the portrait of an artistic dead wife. She feels that he does not care for her and so she returns in her pride DREAMLAND—In "Gates of Brass," the new five-act drama which Mr. Frank Keenan selected for the second of his new productions, the theme is based upon the ancient Egyptian mythology that there is a Nemesis of our own deeds and choices. Inevitably, sooner or later, we must reap as we have sown; there is no escape. In this gripping drama, Keenan gives a wonderful impression of the "Egyptian gods," who realize that playing the "anti-god" is the only way to "break" the curse.

He climbed into the ranks of "high finance" but although eminently successful from a worldly standpoint he lost thereby the one treasure which he valued more than anything else on earth.

RIGENT—An aerial abduction in which the villain drags the hero, in a dirigible, to the top of his flying machine to the top of a rope ladder awaiting him in the running gear of the abductor's craft.

The remarkable feat is performed by Lieutenant Ormer L. Locklear, who assumed army aviation duties last spring, when he first accomplished the hazardous character of a flying field in Texas. As soon as he was discharged from the service, Lieutenant Locklear was called to Universal City, Cal., to produce the last of his aerial thrillers.

Although he never had appeared on the screen before, Lieutenant Locklear played his role as hero in the air during the course of a veteran moving picture actor. He was supported by Frances Billington as the heroine and Raymond Huxley, as the villain.

Miss Billington, recently called much praise for her work in "Hill Hunkies" and "The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing" at the Alpa. Huxley is well known as a screen villain. A new city villain, an air pirate, he proves with conviction that the good old days of Jesse James may be revived again when the air is the great highway.

The Salmon Arm Valleys

No land in the world makes a greater appeal to the farmer than does the great fertile territory of Western Canada, and none possesses greater advantages than the Salmon Arm valleys and the Shuswap Lake. The clear, glorious stretches of water, now smooth and tranquil, save for the occasional leap of the gamey salmon or trout, now dashed into a million wavelets as the breeze from the hills strikes down across its surface; the graceful, undulating regularity of the majestic green-clad mountains; the deep, fertile stretches of the rich valleys, broken by cultivated fields and peaceful meadows, combine to form a picture of contentment and prosperity that one does not forget. The floor of the valleys consists of a rich black soil, relic of the days when beaver dams transformed the valleys for miles into lakes. The rich, black soil is frequently varied by a light, sandy loam and offers unlimited possibilities in the growing of special products, such as celery, melons, corn, root crops. There are heavy cuttings of hay, large yields of wheat and oats. Dairying pays handsomely, the rich pastures affording excellent grazing all summer, while abundant forage crops provide the necessary food supply in winter. The railroad hotels and dining cars purchase much of the milk and cream. Another phase of agriculture that is most profitable is market-gardening which can be carried on in the fields of the fertile valleys and on the table lands, to the best possible advantage. Potatoes yield as high as ten tons per acre. Tomatoes, cabbage, peas and all standard vegetables are largely grown. and the grower can depend upon quick shipment and prompt settlement through the farmers' exchange. Another industry of importance is the poultry business, the section and climate being ideal for the purpose. There is an added attraction in the fact that grain and all food supplies for the flock may be grown on the home ground. Amid soft scenic surroundings, the valleys look like a bit of Ontario, with their general air of settled prosperity and the face of nature has a kindly look with fertile forms and gardens.

Boulogne Conference Arouses Keen Interest In Great Britain; Lloyd George Meets Millerand

Allies Will Begin Discussions Monday—Grave Problem of Europe and Near East Recognized by the British Leaders and Press—Turk Menace in Anatolia One of Serious Issues Before Allies.

London, June 20.—A conference between Premier Lloyd George and Premier Millerand has been arranged for Monday afternoon and Sunday at Hythe, the watering place in Kent, which was the scene of the notable conference between the two prime ministers in May over the German indemnity terms. The Hythe meeting is preliminary to the conference at Boulogne on Monday, at which not only France and Great Britain, but Italy, Japan, Belgium and Greece will be represented.

From Hythe the premiers will proceed early on Monday for Boulogne. Great interest is being taken here in the conference, and it is expected that much speculation in view of the grave problems pending solution throughout Europe and the Near East. The original idea was for a meeting of Premier Lloyd George and Millerand, but the conference seems to have been expanded to a meeting, in which France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Belgium and Greece will participate.

Newspapers of London, calling attention to the serious issues affecting the relations of the allies with Russia, Turkey, Germany, Hungary and Poland, remark that the state of the world is more perilous than at any time in years ago, and call for "clear decisions based on facts, and not on emotion, and free from individual self-seeking."

Menace of Turkey.
 The menace of the Turkish nation, which has been a constant source of anxiety to the allies, is a subject for moment, in the view of editors here, one of the gravest, the situation amounting to a serious peril to the world, the outbreak of a new war, Mustafa Kemal Pasha, leader of the Nationalists, is said to be completely controlling Anatolia with the exception of a small portion of the coast, and in the neighborhood of Izmir, and some territory around the city of Smyrna. His forces consist of 37,000 fighting men, who are well supplied with munitions and have abundant available resources. It is stated that the Turkish government is declared to be belittling the allies, and is reported to be utterly untrustworthy.

Labour Fight for Peace.
 The Labour Party, in its annual conference, is expected to adopt a resolution in favour of peace, and to call for a general strike in support of the peace movement.

Short of Breath Could Hardly Walk Without Resting

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there comes a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

The first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves being overworked is the heart. The first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves being overworked is the heart. The first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves being overworked is the heart.
